

Peter James

Peter James is (part-time) Professor of Environmental Management at the University of Bradford, and associate director of SustainIT, an independent research centre on sustainable communications (www.sustainit.org). He has recently co-authored, for JISC, a review of the sustainable use of ICT within UK further and higher education (see www.susteit.org.uk). He has previously undertaken a number of research projects on ICT sustainability, environmental innovation and related topics for the European Commission, UK Government agencies, and the private sector, and was co-ordinator of the EU Sustel (Sustainable Teleworking) project. He was a member of the EU's Expert Group on Environmental Technology, and is a current member of the Expert Group on ICT and Energy Efficiency.